RED VIEWS ON A-BOMB EYED

Three-Power Conferees Seek Favorable Soviet Reaction to Control Plan.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—Allied officials involved in the atomic bomb talks here indicated today they are largely concerned now about Russia's reaction to the forthcoming Anglo - American-Canadian proposal for controlling atomic force.

Decisions being whipped into shape this week will influence vitally the future of Anglo-American relations with Russia—relations which are the core of United Nations plans for policing world peace.

Evidence available from British authorities is that President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada will seek in their communique on plans for international atomic controls to reassure Russia. This may be done by offering to share scientific knowledge of atomic power fully with the Soviet Union and other countries.

Indications are that Russia will be invited to reassure the western Allies by agreeing to toss her scientific information in the contemplated pool and, possibly, by giving some evidence of her long-range territorial and political aims.

The question which has official insiders worried is, what happens if Russia doesn't want to accept the Anglo - American proposal? Would a negative reaction from Moscow tend to split the world into two camps and take the wraps off an atomic armament race?

The three leaders scheduled another session for 2:30 p. m. (EST) today.

Santa Claus will make a personal appearance in Marion Nov. 23. And being hospitable, a committee of the retailers group of the Marion Chamber of Commerce is arranging a parade in his honor for noon of that day.

Strictly a modern, Santa will fly to Marion direct from the North Pole in a plane piloted by A. A. Freeman of the municipal airport. The plane will land on the Mar-O-Del golf course. From there it will be towed to the highway to occupy the position of honor in the parade.

LA RUE LEADERS PUSH POST OFFICE DRIVE

Seek New Building, Also Doctor To Serve Area.

Special to The Star

LARUE, Nov. 14—A new post office building for LaRue will be built in the immediate future if a movement started by the Business Men's Association is successful. The association has approved appointment of a committee composed of Dean C. Ridgeway, Harold Hodson and W. C. Boyd to contact government officials and encourage quick action on plans recently included in bill passed by congress. LaRue is a second class post office and is now housed in an old frame building.

Extension of State Route 95 west of LaRue to Bellefontaine is another of the plans on the agenda of the group. A committee composed of Andy Ford, N. A. Cook and Dr. H. A. Hoopes has been appointed to initiate the proposal with the state highway officials.

In a meeting Thursday at the Coffee Shop, the question of finding a qualified doctor to settle in LaRue for serving the village and vicinity, since the death of Dr. J. M. Ruckman left the territory without a physician, was also discussed.

The officers recently elected and taking charge at the meeting are: president, Phil Boyd; vice president, Dwight Sager; secretary - treasurer, Rev. William Mezer.

A drive for new members was started with the appointment of a membership committee composed of Dr. J. C. Thuma, Andy Ford and K. B. Ridgeway.

OHIO'S 37TH MAY BE HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14 — Ohio's 37th division may get back from overseas in time for Christmas.

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, in a telephone conversation from Washington, D. C., told Gov. Lausche yesterday that part of the 37th would shove off from Manila, P. I., tomorrow, and said every effort would be made to have all the men back for the Yuletide holidays.

The governor said Patterson told him it would take seven ships to transport the division's 15,000 men and said all would be aboard and enroute to the states by Nov. 25.

Ohio's pre-war National Guard organization was mustered into the 37th division before it shipped overseas 42 months ago.

BLAME NAVY IN HONOLULU RIOT

1,500 Sailors Battle Civilians in "Revenge" for Assaults by Toughs.

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU, Nov. 14—Civilian and military police joined forces last night to forestall a repetition of Monday night's riot, in which, said Police Chief William A. Gabrielson, 1,500 naval personnel tangled with civilians.

The violence would not have occurred, he asserted, if Navy officials had cooperated.

Shore patrolmen telephoned civil authorities for help Tuesday night when sailors, confined to the Naval Air station (NAS), gathered near its gates. The combined police force broke up the crowd.

Detective Captain Eugene Kennedy contended:

"Navy officers knew there was going to be a disturbance at the Damon tract (civilian housing area near the air station) and did not give us advance information."

Kennedy said the Navy personnel went on a three-hour rampage because they were enraged by a false rumor that Damon civilians had killed two sailors.

Several of the Navy officers and men explained Kennedy added, they were angry "because we are damned sick and tired of seeing our buddies get beaten by local toughies and not a damned thing is done about it."

Lt. R. M. Singer, NAS public information official, charged that more than 30 NAS personnel were beaten by civilians in two months, but that the police made no arrests.

Kennedy said the Navy personnel were armed with clubs and knives. Automobiles were overturned, a motorcycle battered and windows smashed. However, Kennedy said there were no serious injuries.

Washington Split on Attlee's Efforts To Sell Huge Loan

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—Several legislators said today that if Prime Minister Attlee is seeking to sell this country on the idea of a loan to Britain he made only a little headway by visiting Capitol Hill.

Others expressed belief a loan will be made. Talks on a multi-billion dollars credit arrangement for England have been under way for several weeks.

Members who heard Attlee address congress yesterday seemed impressed by his frankness. But there was a snarp revision of opinion on his government's objectives.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Republican steering committee, who favors a loan to Britain, said he felt Attlee's explanation of the objectives of the British government hadn't helped much.

"He sounded a little too New Dealish for some people," Taft declared.

Attlee told the legislators the Labor party is primarily concerned with the welfare of the common man, adding this takes government planning. He said it believes in government taking over monopolies when big business gets in that class.

Senator Hoey (D-NC) said the British Labor party's policy of "planned economy" and of taking over monopolies "contravenes our view of government."

Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex) said he is "against any more loans to England, regardless of how nice their new government is."

Senator Magnuson (D-Wash) said he thought more speeches like Attlee's would bring more understanding and less trouble in the world.

British Lash Japs for Arming Natives in Bloody Java Fight

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, Nov. 14—Fighting raged with unabated fury in Soerabaja today, and in Batavia British Maj. Gen. D. C. Hawthorn accused the commander of the Japanese 16th army and his chief of staff of having deliberately handed over arms to "unruly elements" in Java.

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland in Soerabaja said British-Indian troops in the heart of the naval base hurled back three suicidal Indonesian attacks during the night, killing more than 100 and sustaining a half dozen casualties of their own in fighting for the Kota railway station.

Haugland reported it might take the better part of this week to clear out the remaining half of Soerabaja in Nationalist hands.

A reliable unofficial estimate placed the number of Indonesians opposin the British in Soerabaja at between 15,000 and 18,000 men, including many armed with spears.

In the capital the two Japanese generals accused of the unauthorized surrender of their arms were bundled off to Singapore to face charges.

Hawthorn administered a verbal lashing to the two officers, Lt. Gen. Yiuchiro Nagnon and his chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Mochiro Yamamoto, at a formal surrender ceremony, held six weeks after the arrival of British troops. The Japanese generals surrendered their swords to Hawthorn, who is commander of the 23rd Indian division.

The new Indonesian premier, Sutan Sjahrer, prepared to go to Soerabaja in an attempt to bring about a cessation of hostilities.

PAUL JAMES' BODY RECOVERED FROM PIT

Reached by Grappling Hooks After 4-Day Search.

A four-day search for the body of Paul Eugene James, 23, of 779 Fillmore street ended when it was taken from the gravel pit west of the airport at 3:10 p. m. yesterday.

His body had been in the water since early Saturday morning, when he was out hunting and drowned attempting to retrieve a duck which had fallen into the pit.

The body was located by Sheriff Roy Retterer and Clyde Porterfield, Marion county state highway superintendent, after all previous attempts, including use of a professional diver, had failed. They were working from a row boat with a new set of grappling hooks made by Porterfield.

Earlier in the day 10 charges of dynamite were set off. These attempts to bring the body to the surface were unsuccessful as were the similar attempts Monday afternoon.

The body was found 50 feet west and 75 feet south of the spot where James was originally thought to have gone down. It was taken to the Boyd & Uncapher funeral home where friends may call after 7:30 p. m. today. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the funeral home with Rev. Joel Harman, pastor of the First Pilgrim Holiness church, officiating. Burial will be in Marion cemetery.

James had been given an honorable discharge as a technical sergeant from the Army Air Force Oct. 22. He was inducted Jan. 6, 1941 and had spent three years in Europe.

A graduate of Harding High school in the class of 1940 he was employed as a machinist at the Huber Manufacturing Co. before entering the Army.

Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold James of 779 Fillmore street, Marine Sgt. Harold James Jr., Ralph, Robert, Roy and Charles, brothers and Wanda and Barbara James, sisters.

Marion Woman Attack Victim

Unable To Identify Suspect Held by Police in Investigating Assault.

Police today were continuing efforts to solve a case of criminal assault reported by a married 50-year-old woman living on the West Side of Marion. A suspect is held at city prison.

The case was reported to police shortly before 11 p. m. Tuesday after the woman was attacked near the intersection of Thompson and Evans street.

The victim was able to give police only a meager description of her assailant. She described him as being about six feet tall and colored.

She also gave a description of his clothing, which gave police their only clue in arresting a suspect yesterday.

At the police station this morning the woman was unable to make a positive identification of the suspect after viewing him for several minutes. He is being held for further investigation.

On Way To See Daughter

The woman told police the attack occurred while she was on her way to see a married daughter who was ill at her home several blocks from the residence of the victim.

The woman reported the attack took place less than a block from her daughter's home. After the attack she made her way to the daughter's house. When she arrived a physician, called to treat the daughter, was present. The case then was reported to police, the call reaching the station a few minutes before 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

At police headquarters this morning the victim related that as she neared her daughter's home she noticed a man had fallen into step a few paces behind her.

Sensed Danger

"I felt danger," she said, "so I walked slower to give him a chance to pass. He went on some distance and then a white man passed. The second man went on and I lost sight of the first one."

As the victim reached a vacant lot on Thompson street, near Evans, she said her assailant stepped from the darkness.

"He choked me, then put his hand over my mouth and told me not to scream 'or I'll cut your throat'."

The woman reported she was thrown into the mud along the

G.O.P. MEMBERS DEMAND FILES IN KENT CASE

Congress Also Studies Jewish Issue; Early Adjournment Hopes Are Hit.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The secret-code, tapped-telephone atmosphere thickened today as congress prepared to raise the curtain on its Pearl Harbor hearings tomorrow. GOP members called for files of a 1940 code secret violation case.

The first witnesses at the opening session tomorrow will be Rear Admiral T. B. Inglis and Col. Bernard Thielen.

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) said the two officers "will present an account of the Pearl Harbor attack."

Neither officer was at Pearl Harbor during the Japanese attack, committee attaches said.

In congress, also:

Training—The proposal for universal military training has passed its first test but faces an uncertain future.

Palestine — A resolution designed to put congress on record as favoring U. S. efforts to help get Jews into Palestine came before the senate Foreign relations committee for action.

Reorganization—The senate resumed its much-interrupted debate on a bill giving the President authority to reorganize the executive branch of the government.

Site Adjournment

Senate Majority Leader Barkley said after a White House call today that congress will not adjourn until it completes action on what he called "must" legislation.

Leaving a conference with President Truman in which Senator McKellar, president pro tempore, Speaker Rayburn and House Majority Leader McCormack participated, Barkley asserted:

"We are not going to adjourn until we are through if it takes up to Christmas."

Barkley described as must legislation bills on:

Full employment, government reorganization, UNRRA funds, appropriations cutbacks, the Second War Powers act and a pending deficiency appropriation bill.

Both Barkley and Speaker Rayburn said there was no prospect of action before adjournment on a proposal to unify the armed forces and President Truman's universal training request.

Want Kent Files

During the weeks of preliminary work and talk by the Pearl Harbor investigating committee, Republican members of the group have made numerous statements emphasizing mystery and intrigue.

Now, on the eve of the public questioning of witnesses, Senator Owen Brewster (R-Me) stated the state department has been asked to give the Pearl Harbor committee its complete files on the Tyler Kent case.

Kent, a code clerk in the U. S. embassy at London, was convicted in 1940 of violating the British Official Secrets act. He completed his sentence last month.

Brewster said he and another Republican member, Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, want to look at the files to see whether they contain any information on the potential involvement of the U. S. in war before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

The other two Republican members of the committee, Rep. Bertrand Gearhart of California and Rep. Frank Keefe of Wisconsin, yesterday visited FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover.

Gearhart told reporters they got important information, having to do with tapped telephone wires at the Japanese consul's office in Honolulu shortly before the Pearl Harbor attack.

To Hear Eisenhower

As for universal military training:

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower testified on the subject tomorrow before the house military committee. This committee voted yesterday to continue its hearings.

The Palestine resolution under consideration by the senate foreign relations committee is sponsored by Senators Taft (Oh-Ohio) Wagner (D-NY), and Walsh (D-Mass). The resolution, if approved, would put congress on record as favoring that the U. S. "use its good offices" to the end that Palestine be opened for free entry by Jews.

An argument about auto prices continued in the house small business committee today.

Truman Has Plenty Of "Bounce," Doctor Says

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 14—President Truman "has a terrific amount of bounce—he's made up of bounce," the President's personal physician, Colonel Wallace H. Graham, said yesterday.

The President's health is "excellent and he has stood the strain of events perhaps better than the average man," Dr. Graham declared.

Here to address the Southern Medical association's 39th annual meeting, Graham said in an interview that the Chief Executive takes about five minutes exercise every morning upon arising and does "a certain type of calisthenics every night. Mr. Truman also takes a swim about every day."

JEWS LAUNCH STRIKE IN PALESTINE ISSUE

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Nov. 14—A 12-hour general Jewish strike in protest to new British proposals for settling the Palestine problem started at noon today without incident.

All Jewish shops, restaurants, work shops and factories were closed and Jewish-operated buses and taxis stopped.

There was widespread objection in Palestine to a statement of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that Britain and the United States jointly would attempt to solve the problem, and to his intimation that eventually Palestine would be placed under a trusteeship. Britain now governs Palestine under a League of Nations mandate.

The Jewish elected assembly, representatives of all Palestine political parties, will meet Nov. 19 to discuss the British statement.

The council (Vaad Leumi) ordered all Jews working on British government or military enterprises to leave their jobs.

The Jewish press assailed the Bevin statement. The Palestine Post said the Jews were "bound to reject the new policy which proposes an inacceptable immigration quota subject to Arab consent."

Arab newspapers also were critical.

"MY CONSTIPATION RELIEVED"

"Got Relief with Grand Cereal," Says Ex-Sufferer!

If you, too, suffer from constipation, be sure to read this unsolicited letter!

"My system was sluggish, after I'd been sick, and I couldn't stand harsh laxatives. I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, and found it was grand. We have a box of it in the house all the time. Just for variety, several times a week, we mix a small portion of other cereals with the ALL-BRAN. It's delightful! And we still get the benefits from the ALL-BRAN." Mrs. Joseph W. Foutie, 86 Englewood Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

Do you want to be free of harsh laxatives for the rest of your life? You may be, if your constipation is due to lack of bulk in the diet—and you eat a dish of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN and drink plenty of water every day! If not satisfied after a 10-day trial, send the empty carton to Kellogg's of Battle Creek and get double your money back! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It is a delicious cereal made from the vital outer layers of wheat—a most effective source of gentle-acting bulk, which helps support normal laxation! Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's today. It's made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

Why do they think of Lennon's when folks think of LINOLEUM?

Answer—

Because Lennon's sell beautiful kitchens and bathrooms.

Because Lennon's expert mechanics are trained in the Armstrong school.

Because a Lennon installation will save many hours of hard work. Stops scrubbing.

Lady's Stomach Was Like a Gas Factory; Meals Turned To Gas

One lady said recently that her stomach used to be like a "gas factory!" That is, when she ate a meal it seemed to turn right into gas. She was always bloated, had awful stomach gas pains, daily headaches and constant irregular bowel action. Now, however, this lady says she is FREE OF STOMACH GAS and she says the change is due to ERB-HELP. Her meals agree with her. No gas or bloat after eating. Headaches and constipation are gone. "Oh! what relief!" states this lady. "Why don't other gas and constipation sufferers get Erb-Help?"

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse Bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold by all drug stores here in Marion.—Adv.

Poor Digestion? Headachy? Sour or Upset? Tired-Listless?
Yes No
Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.
Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.
Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.
Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any druggists. Only 25c.

...Yank friendliness comes back to Leyte

Naturally Filipinos thrilled when their Yankee comrades came back to the Philippines. For along with freedom they brought back all the friendliness that America stands for. You find it quickly expressed in the simple phrase Have a Coke. There's no easier way to say Relax and be yourself. Everywhere the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola has become a symbol of how Yankee friendliness follows the flag around the globe.

Big Ten Fans Keep Eyes On Purdue Battle at Michigan

Northwestern-Notre Dame Clash Draws Interest; Widdoes Shifts for Illinois Tilt.

By JIMMY JORDAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—Purdue and Michigan meet at Ann Arbor this week-end in a game that has a definite bearing on the outcome of the Western conference football chase, but a non-league clash at Evanston, Ill. between Northwestern and Notre Dame is getting lots of attention from fans.

Not that the Wildcats can make any difference in the championship race. After meeting the Irish, the Wildcats have only one conference contest — with Illinois — twice beaten and just about out of the title picture.

Look to Next Year

But the rest of the conference will be looking forward to next season when Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf's young team that upset Purdue and tied Indiana, the only blot on the Hoosiers record—may be ready to cause more than a bit of consternation in league circles.

The Wildcats yesterday worked on offense and placed their faith in a strong front line in preparing for the battle. Their forward wall, a group that has seen almost 60 minutes of action in each game this season, will have Capt. Max Morris and Stan Gorski at ends, Westi Hansen and Couch Hagmann at the tackles, Jim Lecture and Paul Scheutz at guards, and Bob Piros at center.

The Purdue-Michigan game will top the schedule insofar as the bearing on the title is concerned. The loser will be knocked out of the running for the title.

Purdue went through a long workout on blocking. Michigan stressed both offense and defense.

At Ohio State, Coach Carroll Widdoes put Tommy Watson back at right end and sent Jim Crane to left end in an effort to bolster the Buckeyes for Saturday's conference game with Illinois. The Illini held a two-hour workout against Ohio State plays.

At Other Schools

Elsewhere around midwest grids . . . Indiana welcomed back Chuck Armstrong, second string tackle and place-kicker in a diversified drill in preparation for Saturday's game with Pittsburgh. . . . Iowa went through long passing and running drills and received instruction on tackling for the Minnesota encounter . . . Notre Dame had its entire squad on hand for a workout on pass-defense and blocking. . . . End Jack Mead was named captain of the Wisconsin team for the Navy game.

After 12 first stringers were absent from Monday's workout with excuses, Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota reported that all returned yesterday except for halfback Tom Cates and guard Bob Ilmzhik, who are nursing injuries.

La Due Tackles Nenoff at Armory Tomorrow

Monty LaDue, who was disqualified after a rough-house session in his recent match with Sgt. Billy Fox, will take on Steve Nenoff in the two-hour main event Thursday night at the Armory's weekly grunt and groan show. Nenoff is noted for his ability to give and receive.

The one-hour semi-final bout between Frankie Hart of Windsor, Canada, and Tony Dobie, also of Canada, should be a clean-cut affair.

The program will open at 8:30 with a preliminary.

Snatches of Sports

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 Good way to get in wrong . . . Andy Gustafson, Army backfield coach, thinks Mississippi's Shorty McWilliams isn't as good a halfback as Bobby Jack Stuart, former Tulsa flash who is Shorty's rival for the right half spot at West Point . . . Stuart has more speed . . . On the other hand Lt. Carl Anderson, former Army footballer and hurdler, maintains McWilliams probably could be elected governor of Mississippi in about five years . . . One sure thing is that if they'd put goal posts on the state capitol, Shorty would run towards them.

The Association of College Baseball Coaches will hold its first winter meeting in St. Louis Jan. 8, the day before the National Collegiate A. A. meeting . . . One topic of discussion will be an All American ball team . . . Eddie Compo, the New Haven, Conn., featherweight who has been doing very well lately, is the "baby" of a family of ten. His ambition, he says is "to lick all the guys who beat my brother, Johnny, including Willie Pep."

Couldn't Down His Pin

Bowlers in Appleton, Wis., are claiming absolute perfection for Earle Ruddy because he rolled his second ball between the No 4 and 5 pins without knocking either down . . . His first ball moved the five pin about an inch, leaving just enough room for the second to pass between them . . . "That's a better trick than clipping the 7-10," maintains Sports Editor Burt Beilon, "because you need two perfect tosses."

LINEMAN OF WEEK

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—George Savitsky, University of Pennsylvania tackle, has earned recognition as the outstanding football lineman of the week. The 252-pound tackle, who gets a crack at Army's famed forward wall Saturday, easily won The Associated Press poll for his teeth-jarring performance in Penn's 32-7 defeat of Columbia last week.

Tony Minisi: Navy Minute Man in Last Seconds

RUNS—Here is Tony Minisi when he carried the ball for Pennsylvania in 1944. He made 18 of Penn's 165 points.

KICKS—Minisi can kick, too. A southpaw passer and a good runner he'd be a triple-threat on most teams.

CATCHES—An expert pass receiver, Skippy is shown in practice "stealing" a pass from Bob Hoernschemeyer.

By FRANK ECK
AP Sports Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Navy's football roster lists 17 backs but the unsung hero of this array is Anthony S. (Skippy) Minisi, a 19-year-old 165-pound left hander from Newark, N. J.

Had it not been for Minisi, Navy most certainly would have suffered a 12-6 setback at the hands of Notre Dame and would have had to settle for a 7-7 tie with previously unbeaten Penn. But as it turned out, Navy beat Penn, 14-7, and held Notre Dame to a 6-6 deadlock.

Minisi was the key figure in both of these games and the Middie coaches are beginning to feel that they regarded him lightly when they made him a third stringer at the start of the season. Skippy now is first reserve for Bob Kelly, Navy's starting right half via Notre Dame.

Against Notre Dame, Minisi made a sensational goal-line tackle when he grabbed Phil Colella in midair and tossed him out of bounds one foot from touchdown territory. This occurred in the last 30 seconds.

It was a disputed play until motion pictures were shown. Colella's feet wound up in the end zone but the ball never reached the payoff line. This was because Minisi tackled Colella the only way possible to avoid a score. He climbed aboard Colella's neck and brought him down much in the same manner a cowboy would wrestle a steer to the ground.

The previous week against Penn, Minisi, who last year starred for Penn with his forward passing, decided the issue in the last 25 seconds. Bob Hoernschemeyer, Indiana star of '43 and '44, tossed a 22-yard pass and Minisi sped into the end zone to nab it as three Pennsylvanians made futile lunges at the pigskin.

"We have one play for Minisi," said Coach Oscar Hagberg at the start of the season, "but we don't intend to use it."

The play calls for Minisi to make a southpaw forward pass. Hagberg hasn't used the play but he certainly has made good use of Minisi who last year scored 48 points for Penn.

Army coaches are beginning to wonder about Minisi. The Newark lad who didn't wind up at Notre Dame, as many Jerseyites do, is certainly leading a charmed life on the football field. He's Navy's minute-man, or rather a Johnny-on-the-spot in the closing seconds of a close ball game.

JR. HIGH STARS TO PLAY PREXIE SCRUBS

Game Scheduled for Stadium Next Tuesday Afternoon.

An All-Star Junior High grid team will tangle with the Harding High second and third stringers next Tuesday at the Harding Stadium. The All-Star team will be made up of ninth graders who played on the three junior high teams during the regular season. The All-Stars have begun to practice at the Harding Stadium after school and are being tutored under the watchful eyes of the three junior high coaches along with Ralph Simpson, assistant Harding mentor.

This game will give the Harding coaching staff an opportunity to get a look at what is coming up for next year. It also will be a test for the junior high gridders to see what they are able to do against a little tougher competition. The All-Star starting line-up has not been decided upon since the coaches have not had much time to see the boys work together.

No definite starting time has been announced but it probably will be immediately after school Tuesday.

TOLEDO WAITE SEEKS GAME WITH SPOKANE

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 14—Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Toledo Waite High schools unbeaten-untied football team said today he was awaiting a reply to his challenge to Gonzaga High of Spokane, Wash., for a post-season game before negotiating further with Ohio schools seeking after-season contests.

Mollenkopf said he wanted to see if Gonzaga officials would offer enough incentive for Waite to make the trip to the coast before considering offers from Canton Lehman, Canton Lincoln and Warren High schools.

At least one post-season scholastic tilt was scheduled in the state. Two of Ohio's leading class B teams—Copley and Leetonia—have been booked to play in Reilly stadium at Salem next Saturday. Copley won nine in a row this year and had only a tie to mar its record.

He had been in the Army three years.

"Wrestles LaDue Thursday"

Monty LaDue will find in Steve Nenoff, a man who can dish out the roughness as well as take it, and their two hour main event will likely turn out to be one of the roughest ever seen at the Marion Armory Thursday night. Steve Nenoff has won over some of the toughest men to come to Marion and his match with the Canadian will not be one for a softie. The one hour semi-final should produce some of the best grappling seen in many moons as Tony Dobie has signed to meet Frankie Hart, who just returned from the Pacific coast. Both men stick to the rules and are plenty fast. A prelim will open the show at 8:30 so call Marbert & Lewis Cigar Store early for your best seats.—Adv.

Can Any Pro Team Lick Army? Steve Owen Declines To Say

By GAYLE TALBOT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 — Steve Owen of the New York football Giants can't expect to have a prejudiced opinion ranking among the coaches of the players seriously impressed if he doesn't leave room for doubt about Army's football team.

The Giants' mentor is planning one of the most rugged and traditional of the professional circuit by refusing to say that any team in the National Professional league could lick Army or any other college outfit some time in an afternoon if the right breaks out.

"I'm simply not going to say one way or another" he replied when asked how he thought the Cadets unbeaten eleven would fare against one of the good professional clubs. "It's like trying to say whether Joe Louis could have licked Jack Dempsey."

Admits It's Good

Asked then, if he would appraise Coach Earl Blaik's team strictly on its merits Owen threw his 300-odd pounds headlong into what plainly was one of his favorite topics.

"It's one of the greatest football team I ever saw," he said. "I've never seen two such backs as Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard in the same backfield, that big swift line of blocking sport of wonders.

"It would be difficult to go back to a college team that could have played on even terms with Notre Dame's Rose Bowl team of '43 with a fine set of backs, but you couldn't compare with Army's. Maybe some of those great Minnesota teams would have made it close. I don't see how. But I can't name any college team I ever saw that I'd say was the equal of this one."

Owen was asked if he thought Davis and Blanchard would be able to eat up yardage in the professional game.

"Look," he said seriously, trying the ball in the pro game is no different from carrying it in college. Stars like Davis and Blanchard, given a line in front of them, can run against Davis' run for his third touchdown against Notre Dame was one of the prettiest I've ever seen. He feinted both defensive halfbacks out of position.

"And don't think Army does not have some other fine backs in McWilliams, Stuart and Tucker. Tucker looked like Sammy Baugh throwing that ball last Saturday."

While Owen, at least, sounded like he would give the Cadets a whale of a chance against a pro team, Coach Adam Walsh of the Cleveland Rams said:

"I've been in college football 20 years and only one year in pro ball but personally I believe a top-flight pro club can beat a top-flight college team any day."

Y-Indus Cagers To Play Benefit Game Saturday

A benefit basketball game between the Y-Indus club team and Findlay's Five Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the gymnasium at the Y. M. C. A. will mark the opening of this season's Y-Indus club activities. The group, which for some time has been inactive, was reorganized recently.

Proceeds from the game are to be used for the purchase of a movie projector to be given to the Marion Y. M. C. A.

Playing on the Y-Indus team will be: Kenneth Somerlot, Harold Dillon, Robert (Bob) Stoneburner, "Coxie" Weiss, Wesley Wilcox, Max Roseberry, Merton Porter, Fred Hindman, "Mickey" Ferrin, Gene Shellhorn, Joseph Green, Carroll Caris, John Holliday, Donald Creasap, Daniel Curtis and Richard Mulvaine. Mulvaine will not be present at this game as he has not yet received his discharge from service.

The opposing team is composed of ex-college and high school stars from Findlay. Their team has not yet been defeated this season.

The price of admission is 35 cents. Those desiring to contribute toward the purchase of the movie projector may do so.

JOCKEY JESSOP NEAR RECORD FOR WINNERS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—Jobb Dean Jessop, a 19-year-old lad from Nibley, Utah, was out today after the modern record of winners for jockeys on the big horse tracks set 12 years ago by Jackie Westrope.

Jessop, the nation's leading jockey, flashed first across the wire four times at Sportsman's park yesterday to boost his winning races for the year to 267, including 53 at Sportsman's.

He has a month and a half of the season left, and needs 35 winners to beat the 301 mark set for one year by Westrope in 1933. Ted Atkinson copped honors last year with 279 first places.

Jessop also rode four winners Monday, all favorites. Yesterday, however, he brought two outsiders to the front for victories.

Harding Band's Victory Bond Show Set for Friday Night

Additional plans for the Harding High school band's demonstration Friday night as its contribution to the Victory Loan bond campaign were announced today.

A series of formations which will be staged at the stadium between halves of the football game will include the band members forming a huge "V" in salute to the Victory Bond drive. At this juncture the letters, "BUY BONDS" will be displayed on placards. The field lights will be turned off and "V" outlined in hand lights.

This formation will change to a torch outlined also in hand lights representing the emblem of the Bond drive. While in this torch formation, the band will play the hymn "God of Our Fathers."

A special section in the stadium reserved for some 40 parents of the football squad will be the spot where the next formation will salute. In observance of parents' night, band members will return to the center of the field following the Victory demonstration and spell out "DAD" and the song "What's the Matter with Father" will be sung. The letters will then change to "MOM" and members will sing "What's the Matter with Mother?"

Special invitations were sent to the parents today and approximately 40 are expected to attend. During the time between halves they will be introduced over the loud speaker system.

Following the tribute to the parents, the school song will be heard and monogram "HHS" formed. A huge "S" will also be formed as a salute to Springfield, the opponents.

Hardin Co. Prisoner of Japanese Home After Four Years

Special to The Star

KENTON, Nov. 14—Sgt. Lacy Prater returned to his home in Alger for the first time in four years late Wednesday evening. Three and one-half of these years were spent as a prisoner of the Japanese.

Sgt. Prater told of his experiences as he held his son, 5, on his lap. The boy, whom the father had not seen since he was an eight-month old baby slept contentedly.

Prater was with the 192nd Tank Battalion at the fall of Bataan on April 9, 1942. He told of the five day march from Bataan to San Fernando without water or food. He said, "Charles Everetts of Logan, O., and myself carried our captain, who had fallen from exhaustion, for nine kilometers, to save him from being shot by the Japanese."

He told of being shoved around from one camp to another on the island of Luzon before he was taken to Japan.

"I personally helped kill and butcher two mules and ate dog and monkey meat. Monkey meat was not bad", he said.

Speaking of the Japanese prison camp, Oeyema, on the northern part of the island of Honshu, he said that the camp had a population of 650, 400 of whom were Englishmen. When he told of beatings and cruel treatment he showed no particular animosity toward the Japanese. His work there was in a nickel mine, where the men spent 10 to 12 hours a day toiling. The sanitieas were worse enemies than the Japs at this place, according to Prater. "Each morning when you awaken your body looked as if you had chicken pox from the bites of the insects".

They were formed in groups of ten and if one escaped the other nine were put to death. On man in his group tried to escape and the other nine were placed in a barbed wire enclosure until he was found. Prater said." He was brought into camp full of bullet and bayonet holes with bruises all over his body".

When asked about the trip home Prater said, "I came all the way from Yokahama to Santa Fe, in pajamas."

During the time Prater was in Prison without news from home, his baby has grown into a boy of five, his mother died, and his father is ill at the present time.

Lacy is back to 165 pounds from the 100 he weighed when freed.

Doctors Hit Jim Crow Rule of Ohio Session

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 14—Restriction of attendance to the Southern Medical association's 39th annual meeting to "white persons only" drew a protest from three white Cincinnati doctors and caused a request for withdrawal of another physician's name from the program.

C. P. Loranz, secretary-manager of the association said the trio of doctors, officers of an intern-resident society at Cincinnati's General hospital and Jewish hospital, asserted in a telegram:

"In this community Negro physicians enjoy full parity with white physicians. * * * Since your meeting is called a victory meeting we feel that all groups of the American people who have made victory possible should be allowed to participate. To show racial discrimination is in our opinion contrary to the principles of democracy for which this war was fought and won."

Loranz, identified the doctors as Dr. Charles Blase, Dr. Inceberg Syllm, and Dr. Raymond Suskind.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"I CAN give you two minutes," I told Olina. "After all, curiosity is one of my strongest characteristics, and after your declaration of a minute ago—"

I did not finish the sentence, but spread my hands in mock bewilderment, and was rewarded when she laughter, a sorry exhibit when considered as mirth, but still laughter.

"That was rather a strong pronouncement," she said, "and I meant it. I never can be like Mary. I know now that Georges doesn't wish me to be. But there are certain little tricks of conversation of hers, certain mannerisms which are fascinating to everybody, Georges included. Once I tried, not to imitate Mary but to adapt some of her clever speeches and mannerisms to my own use, and Georges not only appeared to like them but to believe that they were my own ideas, not Mary's."

I could have told her that I remembered very well the night when she had held George's rapt attention by her brilliant persiflage and raillery, and that I had asked to advise me to keep up that line in dealing with the volatile king. But I knew my only role now was approval of the source she already had counted, and I kept silent with attentive eyes fixed on her face.

More Playful Note

"Therefore," she went on, I am going to put that lighter, more playful note into the score of our ... Do you think that's wise?"

"It's one of the wisest things that ever came from your brain," I told her. "It's the one thing I could have wished to add to your plan for happiness."

I rose abruptly and pulled her to her feet.

"I have no more qualms concerning you," I told her. "And now, I simply must go. What shall I tell your mother?"

"Tell her the truth," she said "that I can sleep now. I am going into my bedroom, and I know that when I waken I shall be able to take up life again without whining or tears. I shall be all powdered and lipsticked —" she smiled wryly— "and ready to face the music. And, Auntie Madge ..."

"Yes, dear," I prodded as she hesitated.

May Tell Anything

"You may tell Maman anything you think best about this conversation of ours," she said, and my reply was prompt.

"I don't see why it is necessary to tell her anything save the bare fact that Georges asked you to be his wife when he came back again," I said. "You wish her to know that, don't you?"

Her sigh of relief came from the soles of her shoes.

"Oh, of course!" she said "She and Dad are entitled to know that. But I am so glad I won't have to tell them. You have my full permission to embellish the bare fact of my betrothal with anything else you think necessary. The one thing I ask is that no one speak to me about Georges until I am ready myself to talk about him."

"I shall tell your mother that," I said, "and I am sure she will guard your privacy."

"I know she will," Olina said. "Dear Maman!"

Walked to Library

She was walking with me to the library door, and when she reached it, she put her arms around me again.

"And, dear Auntie Madge," she said fervently, "never, never can I thank you for what you have done for me this day! And now I am going to ask you one last boon. Will you wait until I am out of this room before you open that door?"

"Of course," I told her, and with a swift parting kiss, she fairly ran across the library to another door which I knew led into a corridor from which she could reach the sanctuary of her own room.

I waited until the other door closed, before turning the knob beneath my hand and going from the library into the living room.

Both Philip and Olga rose as I entered, and their faces were tense with anxiety.

"Well?" Philip said a bit brusquely, but Olga's voice was filled with maternal tenderness.

"Is — is — she all right?" she asked.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Rheumatic Fever

We are hearing more and more about rheumatic fever. One of the main symptoms of this condition is inflammation of the joints. This has caused many persons to look upon it as a local infection of the joints, but the symptoms of this disease indicate that it is a general infection.

According to Doctor Robert A Black of Chicago, the principal symptoms include fatigue, which may be noticed by the teacher or mother. The child tires easily and usually is pale. His pulse rate is more rapid than normal, often ranging between 110 and 130, when the normal pulse rate in a child of seven to 10 years of age is only about 90.

At the beginning of the infection, the temperature may be as high as 103 degrees. However, it soon returns to normal in the morning and rises to 99.2 or 100 degrees in the afternoon or evening. This type of fever may continue for months getting higher when the disease becomes more active. Poor appetite is a symptom which is often present. This may be improved by rest.

Often parents nag the child to eat but this does no good, and often makes the appetite worse. Another symptom which may be present is failure to gain weight, or even a loss of weight may occur.

Children with rheumatic fever appear to be susceptible to respiratory infections such as colds or sore throat, and every effort must be made to prevent these infections, since that may cause the rheumatic fever to flare up. So-called growing pains which are described as aching in the legs, may be due to rheumatic fever, particularly if they occur at night and affect the thigh and calf of the leg. These pains usually disappear after the circulation is speeded up through some sort of physical activity.

The chief danger in rheumatic fever lies in the fact that it frequently leads to damage to the heart. Evidence of this damage may be only a heart murmur, which is an abnormal sound heard during the beating of the heart. At first the murmur may come and go, but later on it may become permanent.

In treating rheumatic fever the salicylates are frequently employed under the directions of the physician. Rest is also important. The salicylates, according to Doctor Black, should be administered daily for one month during and after each recurrent upper respiratory infection.

Sulfonamide drugs may also be used to aid in the prevention of respiratory infections in certain instances.

Whenever symptoms like those of rheumatic fever occur there should be no delay in having the child carefully studied to determine if the disorder is present so that it may be properly treated.

Do You Know

HOW TO SHAVE?

MANY MEN shave all their lives, yet never learn how! They simply smear a little lather or brushless cream on their face, grab a razor, and shave. Result, scratch, scrape, pull—an irritated skin—an unsatisfactory shave—and much unflattering comment about blade, razor, soap or whatever!

TO SHAVE PROPERLY, the first requirement is adequate preparation. Wash your face thoroughly with hot water and ordinary soap to remove the grit, oil and perspiration that ordinarily coats the face, and to soften the hair. Use good hot water—the time required for proper softening decreases rapidly, the hotter your water is. Then rinse the face thoroughly.

Now apply a good shaving soap (rubbing the lather in well with fingertips) or, if you prefer, a brushless cream. These preparations further emulsify the natural oil of the skin and permit the hairs to be wet more thoroughly. Allow from two to three minutes, or even longer for these simple tasks, and your shave will be quicker, easier, and more satisfactory.

AND NOW, the last requirement of a good shave—the blade you use. There are many satisfactory blades on the market, but one is quite unique and offers a great advantage over usual blades. This blade is hollow ground. Usual blades are ground like a jackknife, like this \ . The hollow ground blade is // ground like a barber's razor like this / . Due to hollow grinding, this / blade is not held rigid by the razor guard. The slight "play" at the flexible edge permits the blade to follow facial contours effortlessly without "bearing down". And it's bearing down" that irritates tender skins and wears out delicate blade edges prematurely.

So men, prepare your face properly, use plenty of time and water, get yourself some of those hollow ground blades and—learn to make shaving a pleasanter, easier task.

$1.00 a day for a Burro sounds cheap

—but look what it really costs!

In rural areas of Mexico, you can hire a burro for $1 a day. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we had cheap transportation like that in this country?

Would it? Let's see:

A burro travels about 25 miles in a day—carries a load of 200 pounds. To move a ton of freight you'd need 10 burros . . . also 10 dollars. So the real cost is 40 cents a ton mile.

In contrast to that, here in America the Erie and other railroads move freight at an average cost to the shipper of less than 1 cent a ton mile!

Yes, it's the American method of progressive mass transportation, created by private investment and operated by skilled labor and far-sighted management, which makes this difference possible.

Medical Men Fear Epidemic In Atom-Bombed Nagasaki Area

By HAL BOYLE
AP Feature Writer

NAGASAKI, Japan—Fear of an epidemic disease is causing more worry to American health authorities here than any possible after effects from radio-active remnants of the war's second atomic bomb.

It is due largely to the enterprise of a young Massachusetts doctor that no widespread contagion has radiated from this wasteland of death and devastation, where science on Aug. 9 confirmed the atomic age, born three days before in blasted Hiroshima.

Hal Boyle

"Whatever we may feel about helping the Japanese, we have to take every step to protect our own troops," said Capt. Herbert Horne Jr., former Lowell, Mass., and New York City medical center physician.

"Any civilian epidemic would endanger about 20,000 Second Marine division men in southern Kyushu."

As chief health officer for the American military government in this area, it was his job to prevent any such outbreaks after his arrival Sept. 25. He found himself without adequate medical supplies and with little Japanese medical help.

"Everybody was still dazed and disorganized," he said. "All but four doctors on the Nagasaki Medical University faculty and student medics from the third and fourth year classes were killed out by the bomb. It exploded only a few hundred yards from the university and its hospitals. Every patient, every nurse and every doctor inside the hospital were killed, as well as every first and second year medical student."

Death Toll Staggering

Horne estimated that the bombing cost 60,000 to 80,000 lives. Of these, 30,000 to 40,000 were seared to death within 10 seconds. The remainder died a lingering death in the next six weeks from gamma ray burns that destroyed red blood cell building tissues in bone marrow, or burned intestines so severely the victims couldn't digest food.

"There is no danger from radio activity now," Horne said. "If you had been in one place there for as long as 12 hours during the first three or four days after the bombing you probably would have been affected. But after that the radio activity quickly diminished."

The stocky smiling officer, nicknamed "Trader Horne" by the Marines, had to scrounge most of his medical facilities.

Although the bomb's fierce heat had powdered the paper records in the Nagasaki hospital, and melted windows and medicine bottles, it left intact many medical instruments in the basement.

In an adjoining building it had miraculously left intact many mattresses and iron cots. Horne appropriated them.

Moves All Patients

He moved all the patients in the city to the 650-bed Japanese naval hospital at Omura, 25 miles north of Nagasaki. Then he had the Japanese set up a small hospital in a windowless school building to care for contagious disease cases—chiefly typhoid and dysentery. Drying fish dangle from the windows and each patient has a member of his family there to cook his meals in the corner of the ward.

"You can see their ideas of sanitation," Horne commented, dryly.

He now has nearing completion a modern 100-bed hospital in a schoolhouse in the center of the city. He'll direct this hospital himself, with more attention to the principles of Lister and Pasteur.

Nagasaki now has electrical service and a safe water supply—the gas plant was demolished—but flies are thick over ruined areas where the stench of trapped bodies still is strong. All bodies that could be found were piled together and burned with gasoline, a practice the Japanese, themselves, initiated.

"We are afraid of typhoid and diphtheria epidemics," Horne said, "although the disease rate currently is low. We have some cases of malaria and dengue fever, and encephalitis, which is 40 to 60 per cent fatal. We are worried about a real outbreak of malaria next spring unless we can get some DDT to spray over the whole area.

VD Rate High

Venereal disease is extremely prevalent and a real health menace to the troops. Horne said the geisha houses were closed after the examination of 337 prostitutes disclosed that 81 per cent had syphilis.

"We also found, in an examination of a cross section of the population, that approximately 57 per cent were similarly infected," the doctor said.

Piles
Are Never "Mild"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves. Instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

Strategic Defense

GEN. ARNOLD'S outline of strategic defense in the atomic age will not suffer the usual fate of official reports, in all probability. The chief of Army Air Forces in his final report on the performance of his responsibilities has said what already is so deeply implanted in public awareness of defense problems that he only reflects popular opinion by saying it. The people were thinking ahead of their government on the wartime possibilities of aviation before World War II. They are abreast of possibilities now, and probably will stay that way. Gen. Arnold's expert opinion will not be filed away and forgotten. The people will remember what he says.

They find it easy to understand such things as space ships and atomic rockets, in other words, because they are thinking about them. They believe in the necessity of strategic defense against the possible use of such weapons against them because they are aware of the same potentialities that Gen. Arnold mentions. They know they were lucky to be spared destruction in the war just ended even before they learned how far advanced were the enemy's preparations for using rockets and long-range planes. They have seen their own planes bridging oceans. They have helped in the development of the atomic bomb.

The concept of the strategic defense of the United States against any foreseeable eventuality is no longer the exclusive interest of professionals. Total warfare has made it the interest of everybody. The people know that if war happens again, they will be direct participants, just as the people of Britain, Germany and Japan were in World War II. There is no problem of public support for obviously necessary measures of national defense. Americans have outgrown the era when every proposal to defend the country against the possibility of attack was subject to challenge by those who preferred to argue about the possibility of the attack, rather than the efficiency of the defense. Gen. Arnold's recommendation for better intelligence work, continued development of air power, establishment of a strategic air force and retention of important bases is the recommendation of a nation. Americans are air-minded. They will insist on the fullest exploitation of the weapon which turned the balance in World War II—exploitation for their defense and exploitation for their welfare in the long peace they believe can be assured by air power.

Specifications for a Successor

IT IS noteworthy that the passing of Jerome Kern, thanks to radio, is a direct loss to millions, instead of the thousands who were associated most closely with the gifted writer of song hits for musical shows.

His music, like all music that has something in it of the people's dreams, burdens, failures and triumphs, is part of the national heritage of culture. We will be singing his tunes and other musicians will be studying them to learn the secret of their popularity long after Jerome Kern's era has passed. Radio has made music almost a puplic trust.

Though it is unlikely he ever thought of it, Jerome Kern shared one of the greatest privileges a composer ever has—that of writing the nation's favorite songs. He earned it by music that the people liked. If Jerome Kern was not great, in the sense that the greatest composers are great, he clearly was one of America's best assets in culture. His successor should be just like him; and there must be a successor, or many successors, to give Americans a continuous supply of tunes so genuine they might have been written by the people themselves.

Ferment in Asia

IF ONE requirement for an Occidental following the news from Asia were to be specified, it might well be a conscious effort to understand the magnitude of the areas and populations concerned.

Asia is in ferment. It was in ferment before World War II, a fact easily overlooked in the excitement about events in Europe. The war itself added yeast and warmth to the tremendous forces involved. Whether one looks at trouble in the Netherlands East Indies, the friction between Chiang Kai-shek's government and a dissident Communist minority in China, the restless stirrings of India, or merely the defeated empire builders of Japan now being herded back to their offshore islands, the picture always is the same. The oldest world, now in direct contact with the newest world, is feeling the impact of new forces and pressures on its ageless problems.

The West is being warned—and needs the warning—that the East may be the next great battleground of contenders for world power, if cooperative security fails. The West is being reminded—and needs the reminder—that the East dwarfs it in every respect, except initiative. It has population, area and resources. It is getting ideas. The massive movement of civilization westward has carried it back to the continent of its origin. Asia is awakening from its sleep of centuries.

News Behind the News

Labor Parley Looks Better from Inside.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The stage Mr. Truman set for the labor conference looked better from the back of the scenes than the way you saw it out front.

And better than that was the receiving the President did of the principal roles. You may have read here beforehand that John L. Lewis, who is not only a living Horror but inspired the play the labor has enacted the last few years (sit down strike, organization of CIO), was scheduled to carry a spear. He had been limited to one vote and no representation on committees.

But when the curtain went up, there was Mr. Lewis, practically in center stage, less talkative than usual and without a spotlight on him, yet visibly the unannounced star. In fact, the assigned roles were openly revised and the executive committee enlarged to give him full representation.

Lewis In White House

A few days before Mr. Truman had called Lewis in to the White House. It was not only the first time Lewis had seen the inside of that august edifice for years; it had been years since he had even seen Truman. They had met when Truman was investigating war contracts as a senator. Lewis came in with other union leaders, but remained behind for a private unreported talk. He expressed a sincere personal interest in success for the conference; made clear his belief it was time to get back to collective bargaining (in contradistinction to all this nonsense of strikes, arguments, politics and chaos) and said he was ready to cooperate.

This was a bonanza for Truman, in the theatrical terminology of the day. The conference was being publicly foredoomed. The dominant power was Hillman and his CIO. It was he who took the initiative in handing Lewis the spear role. His tactics are always to fight, fight, fight—especially when the time has come to make peace. Recrimination or selfish political advantage always seem to be guiding stars he cannot get away from—and these practically exclude the barest possibility of peace.

Lewis took hold. The first thing, with AFL's Bill Green standing by his side (Green could never handle Hillman), Lewis turned his bullet-eyes, camouflaged under Karloff eyebrows upon the follower of Mars and said matters would be handled thus and so. They practically were.

The chances for final, convincing peace are hazardous, of course, but it is the way the stage was happily reset to improve them at the last minute. The first two days were steam-vented with speech-making and then the opposing factions went off the front pages and into committee meetings to do the real business.

My information is that the agreed goal were two:

A—Adopt a set of new, strong principles under which labor and management can live.

B—To set up new machinery for collective bargaining.

Machinery Important Thing

The principles should not prove excessively difficult. The machinery is the important thing. The national labor relation and war labor boards have been farces when no one wants to play longer, except the Hillman-Murray combination which is the only one that got much out of it for itself. The idea of new labor boards, more honest, more judicial (creating a refuge where both sides can go to get justice instead of political or high pressure settlements) is one solution which seems obvious to me. The railway mediation board is a pattern, which has prevented general strikes in that industry for nearly 20 years. It was formed back then when just such a situation as now controls labor nationally was evident in that one industry. Railway management and labor got together and wrote a law, providing cooling off periods before strikes and just mediation.

This cannot be done, however, for every union in the country say those who are intimate experts with an objective inner view of the problem. They think such a board or boards would be smothered with cases from every drug store or laundry. The machinery, they assert, would be too cumbersome. The job of factfinding alone would be stupendous.

My own belief is that if you lay down a genuine set of principles—sufficiently genuine to get both sides honestly in favor of making them work—the government will have far fewer cases than you might guess from the existing conditions. I think such a solution would achieve stabilization of the current chaos rather swiftly. A solution like that would have the greatest power in the world behind it, the knowledge and cooperation of the people in establishing right.

Success or failure of the conference rests upon the degree to which this one single principle is achieved.

Keyboard War of Future

It Sleeps in "Fingertip" Laboratory.

"HOT" SHIP—Jet planes like this generate terrific heat at high altitudes. Licking such scientific barriers is the job of the Army's Wright Field "fingertip laboratory."

* * *

(Second In A Series of Articles)

By PAUL B. MASON
Associated Press Writer

DAYTON, O.—By "fingertip" control of planning, the Army Air Forces are harnessing science to expedite the push-button planes of peace and those that may fight what Gen. H. H. Arnold has described as the "push-button war" of the future.

It's a grim picture of that "next war" that is painted these days at Wright Field, home of the Air Technical Service Command.

Col. T. B. Holliday, chief of the equipment laboratory and one of the armed services' brilliant electrical experts, paints it this way:

The next war won't be fought so much by air pilots as by men seated in caves. We'll have pilotless, crewless radio-controlled aircraft whose bombs will be loosed by the "wave-men" seated half a world away—perhaps at something like the console of an organ with a radar-screen and radio-active stops and controls.

The Equipment Laboratory ATSC was charged during war years with developing much that made America great in the air and whose energies and responsibilities now have swung from tactical affairs to those which, in the not too distant future, may even lighten the load of Mrs. Average Housewife as she performs her daily tasks at home.

And the constant quest for higher altitudes, higher speeds and greater range for aircraft, the further development of jet propulsion and the need of supercharged cabins—these are dynamic, ever-present, subjects of research by engineers and scientists at Wright Field.

Heat Problem

"For instance," mused Maj. Haskell B. Collins, chief of planning, "it's well enough to marvel at a man in a jet-propelled plane can fly at 550 miles an hour. But a plane traveling that fast, say at 45,000 feet, generates 53 degrees of heat through friction with the air alone. Much of that would penetrate the cabin or cockpit.

The problem is not only to find structural material more resistant to heat but to air-condition these 'hot' planes for pilot and passenger comfort.

Mouse Sends a Wire

BALTIMORE—"Miss Louise," one of Baltimore's fairest mice, comes closer to being an electrical engineer than probably any other of the cat-food species. Stumped electricians at the Army's Holabird Signal Depot here were unable to draw a wire through a particular tortuous hole. Holabird Janitor Jerry Carter nominated his pet, "Miss Louise," for the job. The wire cord was fastened to the animal which was then coaxed through the hole.

Down Buttermilk Way

By The Associated Press

INDEPENDENCE, Ore.—The launching of the ferryboat Claggett III on the Willamette river was marked by enough enthusiasm to offset the lack of spectacle.

No champagne was available, so Mayor Maurice J. Butler substituted a gallon of buttermilk.

Then an argument arose as to which end of the craft was the bow. Fortunately, Judge Herman Van Well of the county court was on hand, and he made a swift judicial decision.

Butler swung the bottle of buttermilk with a vigor that would have done justice to a Henry Kaiser launching, and a bulldozer pushed the boat into the river.

Government Pay Hikes

By J. Frank Tragle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—President Truman's suggested pay raise for federal workers would increase the government's peacetime payroll obligations an estimated $415,570,000 a year.

But the federal payroll for persons in the proposed pay raise category still would be a billion dollars a year less than it was on July 31, 1945, for there were more government employes then and overtime pay rates still were in effect.

The President's recommendation would affect government employes from office boys to the chief justice.

Mr. Truman would raise the salaries of most white collar workers by 20 per cent; but certain professional, scientific and administrative personnel might earn a maximum of $15,000 a year instead of $9,800.

Cabinet Included

Salaries of cabinet members would be increased from $15,000 to $25,000 a year; undersecretaries' and the solicitor general's from $10,000 to $20,000. Assistant secretaries, assistant attorneys general and assistant postmasters general, who now receive from $9,000 to $12,000 annually, would receive $17,500.

Heads of independent agencies and members of independent boards, whose salaries range from $9,000 to $12,000, would receive $17,500 or $20,000, as determined by the President.

Congressmen—Double

Salaries of members of the House and Senate would be doubled from $10,000 to $20,000 a year; those of the vice president and the speaker of the House would be raised from $15,000 to $25,000.

Chief justice of the supreme court, from $20,500 to $30,500; associate justices of the supreme court, from $20,000 to $30,000; judges of the circuit courts of appeals, court of claims and court of customs and patent appeals, from $12,000 to $22,500.

Chief justice of the district court for the District of Columbia, from $10,500 to $20,500; judges of the district courts, judges in Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska exercising federal jurisdiction, and judges of the customs court, from $10,000 to $20,000.

Payroll Slimmer

In estimating the cost of the proposed raises, the Civil Service Commission assumed that the total federal civilian employment within the continental limits of the United States would be approximately 2,000,000 on June 30, 1946—a decrease of about 900,000 from V-J day.

Of these 2,000,000 employes about 860,000 would be affected by the increases. The other 1,140,000 would not be affected because they have their own wage setups. These excepted groups include principally certain civilian employes of the War and Navy Departments; to some power projects, such as TVA; of the FBI, whose employes are not subject to Civil Service, and virtually all those connected with the Postal Service. In general, workers employed outside the continental United States would not be affected.

Total Given

The total payroll, including the proposed raise, of the 860,000 persons would be approximately $2,414,900,000 as of June 30, 1946, the commission figures. This would compare with a total payroll for 1,221,000 persons in this category of $3,565,300,000 as of July 31, 1945 — which included overtime payments.

The estimated cost of the 20 per cent increase in the basic rates of these 860,000 workers would total about $403,000 a year.

Reclassification Proposed

Estimated annual cost of the other proposed raises:

New classifications which would permit certain professional, scientific and administrative personnel to earn up to $15,000 a year—$3,000,000.

Heads and assistant heads of executive departments — $1,400,000.

Members of Congress—$5,320,000.

Judges—$2,850,000.

Total—$415,570,000.

Justification for the proposed increases, says Civil Service Commissioner Arthur S. Flemming, is to compensate workers for increased living costs to "to make the United States government stand out as one of the most progressive employers in the nation, and thus attract to its service and hold in its service persons of outstanding qualifications."

More Wanted

Spokesmen for federal worker groups told the committee the proposed 20 per cent increase for white collar workers was not enough. The American Federation of Government Employes (AFL) suggested a 24 per cent hike; the United Federal Workers (CIO) recommended 30 per cent—as is being sought by many of the estimated 1,140,000 federal employes who would be outside the category affected by the proposed raises.

The National Federation of Federal Employes (not affiliated with AFL or CIO) said 20 per cent was not enough but mentioned no alternate figure.

The Once Over

Alarming Reactions to Football Flashes

ELMER TWITCHELL, red hot football enthusiast as usual at the annual grid season opening, is ready to stand the strain of those football Sundays. Not that he goes to many games. He sees a few in the newsreels. What ruins Elmer are the newsreel movies.

* * *

He is one of those football fans who gets so excited he wants to get into the plays. He has been ejected from many movie houses for leaping out of his seat and trying to referee a fumble, take out a tackle or grab a pass.

* * *

He can sit quietly through most movies without any impulse to join the players on the screen, but football scenes get him. Just a glimpse on those views of two big teams tearing up and down the screen and Elmer goes berserk. He takes off his coat the moment a game starts showing and he has taken to wearing a heavy sweater to the movies and perhaps wrapping himself in a blanket. How he loves to throw them off and gallop down the aisle!)

* * *

A couple of Tuesdays ago Elmer caused a riot in one house by leaping onto the stage, running into one of the big scenes and trying to call signals.

* * *

The team of his choice had lost on downs on the ten yard line and Elmer couldn't stand it any longer. It took the house manager, four ushers and a pianist to get him out of the pit.

* * *

Last night the big game suddenly flashed on the screen between two big features. With five yards to go for a touchdown a player dropped the ball and it rolled over the sidelines and right out of the movie. Elmer thought it went into the third aisle. He sprang from his seat and went for it.

* * *

He came up with a felt hat, a handbag and a bag of potatoes belonging to a Long Island movie addict, reversed the field and seemed about to make the most sensational run of the year when thrown by the house policemen and a violinist.

* * *

Elmer was pretty well mixed up. He insisted that Noel Coward's back had not given him the necessary blocking and that but for that he would have romped right through Bogart and Sheridan.

* * *

There is something to be said for Elmer. Those movie flashes of epic contests are hard to follow. Half the time we are not sure whether the action moves closer to the photographer now and then or whether its vice versa. And it is our conviction that the football episodes frequently get mixed up with the episodes in the double feature picture.

What's Wrong with This Picture?

Only nineteen thousand new autos were turned out in America in the last four months. Yet they are offering new cars on the air as radio prizes. How come?

Those Nazi saboteurs who landed on Long Island early in the war planned to blow up Hell Gate Bridge and many other vital points, it is now disclosed, but the first thing one of their leaders did when he got foot ashore was to phone the FBI. This, we think, showed a slight lack of determination.

Why should Fiorello LaGuardia have opposed a former policeman in City Hall. Wasn't he always yelling copper?

Speakers

By Truman Twill

There are, generally speaking, two kinds of speakers, those who speak generally and those aware of their limitations. With the latter, there is nothing to worry about. A speaker aware of his limitations either learns to keep his mouth shut, or to rise above his limitations.

But there is a good deal to worry about in connection with speakers who either do not know their limitations, or if they do know them are too lazy to do anything about them. These imposters are going to give speaking a black eye if something is not done about them—soon.

The same thing is going to happen to speaking that happened to vaudeville. It is going to be killed by its ham performers. The public is going to get sniffish about all speaking and begin to stay away from speeches in droves because of too many inferior performances.

The plain fact of the matter is that there is more to making a speech than opening the mouth and emitting articulate noises. Certainly there is a lot more to it than emitting inarticulate noises. A speech is supposed to start somewhere, move along cogently in one direction and arrive somewhere.

It is supposed to be considerably more than a dictagraphic impression of idle talk in a powder room or a pool hall. It is expected to be the result of more preparation than is represented by the half-remembered years of a misspent life. Those who listen to it have a right to believe it should give them some kind of a run for their time and money.

Yet the fact is that the country is full of speakers, so-called, who have nothing to say, nothing to say it with and no claim to the type of speaker more substantial than that bestowed on them by such accidental circumstances as having been born with (1) horrible features, (2) a warped personality, (3) muscles, (4) strong vocal cords, (5) brass, or having acquired notoriety somewhere along the line from the cradle to the grave.

These are the saboteurs who are killing public speaking. They have it on the ropes already and are circling for the last blows that will put it out of the great arts on the shelf until the public recovers from the mayhem they have committed. What this country needs is a national commission to examine speakers and separate imposters from the genuine article. Then, equipped with state laws declaring open season on pretenders who cannot produce a certificate of capability, the people could settle back and enjoy speaking as it was intended to be enjoyed before the easy money crowd moved in on it.

News of War's Close rings Indescribable oy to Jap Prisoners

Dispatch today tells the story of his last days in captivity of himself and his men to the startling word

By GENERAL JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

1945 King Features Syndicate, Inc., Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Installment No. 39

NO NOTION where our group of senior officers was taken on the morning of Dec. 1, 1944, when Major Gen. Edward P. King's litter on the hard railroad car benches at Sheng Tai Tun to speculate on what was in the Red Cross parcel lay so temptingly close to us.

We covered our destination at the end of a long, cold day when the train pulled into the Manchukuo station with the baggage, and the rest of us were ordered out. We were taken to our new prison camp in a motley quaint old conveyance. It had been in grid design on the outside but completely covered with dirt. But compared to the temperature in Siam it was a refrigerator box. Again we were glad to climb a long, one-level platform above the ground. Officers and men as well as Japanese occupied the building. The equipped for steam were as cold the first 24 hours.

Daily Inspection

Then we found our most camp commander. He lieutenant named never a day passed not come into my a thorough inspection of my clothes and bags. I stood there at attention, a meticulous devil. On arrival he issued to each of us an exhaustive list of instructions telling us where every object in our rooms must be placed. In my room, for instance, certain articles had to be kept on a certain shelf and in a precise position. The wastebox must be in its exact place, as must be the spittoon and the fire bucket. It was only an annoyance, but for men of our age it was so infernally picayune that it was a source of perpetual irritation. There is something degrading about being bawled out loudly in front of your men because a spittoon is a few inches out of its ordained place.

Kind Deed Stopped

Lieut. Marui treated our enlisted men as cruelly as they had been treated anywhere else, including Karenko. In the bitterest weather he turned them out to work without proper clothing. I felt so sorry, for Sgt. Hubert Carroll, my orderly, one day that I lent him my Jap army woolen stocking cap and the boots that had been issued to me. But Marui spotted him and made him take them off, because they were intended for officers.

The food was bad at Sian, but at least we were done with our rice diets. We would have cornmeal mush for breakfast, a thick gruel for lunch, vegetables and a kind of soya bean curd for dinner—and whenever some Jap officer or important Jap civilian visited the camp we were served with white bread, after being warned not to mention to the visitor that it was not the usual custom.

Red Cross Supplies Restricted

Each man was allowed to have one of his American Red Cross packages the day after we arrived. But two days later we were ordered to give back what we had not consumed or used, and thereafter the Japs parceled the supplies out to us in the tiniest portions possible.

I spent my third Christmas in captivity at this Sian camp. Next to the one at Karenko in 1942 it was the worst.

The Japs announced a day or two before that Lieut. Marui was 'pleased' to 'tell us that he would give us one egg each and would send five chickens to the 34 officers in our group. But we were also led to understand that he would give us at least one of our Red Cross packages for Christmas, to round out what promised to be an insufficient fare. With that in mind we more or less contentedly went about decorating our quarters with what scraps of colored paper we could find and some greenery we were able to break off the frozen trees of the area. The spirit of Christmas does not die easily in a Christian. We longed for home and family and fireside as much if not more than ever, and tried this feeble Manchurian substitute.

Meager Yuletide Fare

Instead of a package for each of us—which would have meant a bit of meat, milk, cigarets and candy—we were given a small portion of our canned butter, cheese and jam, and told that because of this the future deliveries of our supplies would have to be reduced.

It put us in the kind of mood no one wanted to be in. That Christmas Day I wrote in my diary:

"What a travesty on the Day Christmas, Hell- I only hope my dear ones at home are happier than I am."

Two fine boys, Pfc. Lloyd L. Kelley, U. S. Army, and Pvt. Johnny Kroeze, Netherlands East Indies Army, endeared themselves to me for life and made my remaining months at Sian more livable, when they came into my room on Jan. 1, 1945, bearing a chair they had ingeniously made out of a folding American cot they unearthed.

I barely know of anything they could have done for me that would have been nicer. The chair had arms, and a shelf on one side on which one could place a book. The seat was made of canvas. I covered my old bones into it with a sigh, while they stood there with delighted grins on their faces.

Gift Card Enrages Marui

But it got them in trouble. With the chair they brought along a homemade gift card. It contained a suitable drawing for the season, and underneath they had written:

"Home Alive in '45
OCTOBER"

I carelessly left this heart-warming card on my table, and it was found there at roll call that night when Lieut. Marui paraded in to inspect the room and see that everything was in place. His eye immediately alighted on the card, which he snatched up and read. He flew into a great rage.

Marui had Kelly and Kroeze on the carpet the next day. He was madder about the significance of the card than he was about the chair, and he was almost mad enough about the chair to take it away from me.

"Why did you give General Wainwright that chair?" he bellowed at the boys. "And why have you suggested that he may be home in October?"

Kelly is a quick-witted lad. He explained that he and Kroeze had given me the chair because I had done them a favor or two in the past and they liked me.

Irish Ingenuity Wins

The Jap let that go, after a time, but he bore down hard on the inscription on the card.

"Oh, that's a joke, Kelly laughed. "It is not a joke. It is an attack on the Japanese war effort!" Marui yelled.

But Kelly kept laughing.

"No, it's a joke lieutenant," he insisted. "You see, we were just poking fun at the general."

"Fun?"

"Yes," Kelly lied, manfully. "You see, the general has a slogan of his own, and we wanted to ridicule it."

"What is your general's slogan?" the Jap asked suspiciously.

"'The Golden Gate in '48'," Kelly answered, without batting an eyelash, and that seemed to please the oaf.

Lid Kept on News

Marui's worry over "Home Alive in '45" was that he feared we were getting news of Jap reverses. But there was no way for us to find out what was happening in the world. We repeatedly made efforts to get newspapers or radio news, but to no avail. We wrote the Jap colonel in charge of all prison camps in Manchuria and to the International Red Cross. The British and Dutch wrote to their respective Protective Powers in Tokyo. But the lid was on tight.

Our barracks, as I said, were heated by steam. But it was at times so cold in there that I had to wear most of my clothes day and night. Sgt. Carroll and Cpl. T. J. Willard helped by wangling some flour from the kitchen, making paste, and sticking paper over the ill-fitting windows.

When all the books were read and re-read at Sian I spent my daylight hours serving as the official razor blade sharpener of the camp. Just before he died at Karenko, poor Sgt. Cavenaugh willed me his little concave-shaped hone. I became quite proficient at the job, in fact so proficient that I was kept busy at it through most of the day the rest of my time at Sian.

Becomes Expert With Blades

I was able to sharpen as many as 20 blades a day. There was no way of buying new blades, so it was imperative that old old ones be kept sharp. I made my own two blades last a full year with Cavanaugh's bone. I kept the Dutch governor general's single blade in workable condition for seven months and 24 days.

The long Manchurian winter dragged on and, each man to his own taste, we did what we could to occupy our minds. I just about committed to memory Kenneth Roberts' "Oliver Wiswell" his "Northwest Passage" and Stewart Edward White's fine frontier story "The Long Rifle."

And I continued a string of solitaire games which I had commenced about a year after my capture. I decided that I would play 10,000 games and record the results. By the late winter of 1945 I had passed the 7,500 mark.

Smokes Scarce

Finding enough to smoke was a problem at Sian. The Japs would not give us enough of our Red Cross cigarets. As a substitute we were occasionally permitted to buy the thin, quick-burning and tasteless cigarets of the Jap military. I smoked perhaps six of these a day—all I could get—then cut up the butts and used their contents in my pipe.

All of our teeth were in bad condition at this late date in physical neglect, and after much quickening the Japs let us hire a Jap dentist in February. He came with a rudimentary type of filling and stoked it into our cavities, primitive skill. Several of us, including myself, had teeth which had been broken off at the gums, but the dentist would not pull what was left and we suffered greatly from these nubs.

Junk Offered for Sale

The thieving Jap supply men at Sian, with their warped outlook, often offered to sell us things for which we had no earthly use. Jap pictures, toy dolls, toy horses, cigaret cases and—one day—several sets of curling irons.

A new loneliness crept in on us as the endless winter continued. All our mail was cut off and since we were permitted to hear no official news as to the progress of the war we began to feel more abandoned than ever in our bleak exile.

We did notice, however, that the number of air raid drills increased and more often than not, at night, we were told to draw our blackout curtains. We had no way of knowing for certain, but we reasoned that on more than one occasion these exercises were more than mere drills, though we heard no planes or bombs. We acheft for some such harbinger.

Colds and Flu General

It was still freezing at Sian on March 21, but the Japs methodically ordered us to turn in the warm clothing they had issued to us, and they shut off the heat—for this was the first day of spring. By April 3, when it was 16 degrees above zero, we all had heavy colds or influenza. The Japs then made a concession and turned the heat back on for an hour in the morning and an hour in the evening. But this stopped a week later.

They put the enlisted men to work about this time, plowing a garden in the nearby ground though the ground was still frozen from 12 to 18 inches deep. The senior officers were given small plots in which they might raise vegetables. Sgt. Carroll, in addition to his heavy work, generously planted me some string beans, red peppers, melons and tomatoes.

Get Favorable War News

Carroll and other enlisted men began coming to me from time to time in the early spring of 1945 to tell me that Jap soldiers with whom they occasionally spoke had told them the war was going well for the Americans in the Pacific.

In captivity it is easy to grasp at any comforting rumor. However, I had too much contact with a quirk that is peculiar to the Jap mentality. The Jap takes an especial delight in lying. He uses lies as a means of building up a captive to a greater letdown when the truth becomes evident. So I tried not to let myself become excited over these rumors of success—and the hope of early liberation—and set to work to try to figure the length of the war as accurately as my military training permitted.

I first concluded that the war could never end until we landed a strong force on Japan proper.

Conjectures on Invasion

It seemed imperative, therefore that we must gain possession of an island near enough to Japan to permit a landing on the mainland supported by land-based aviation as well as by the fleet. I decided that it would take the better part of a year to build up a suitable invasion force after the island had been captured.

With the hypothetical island in our hands sometime in 1945 I believed that it would take until nearly the end of 1946 to build up the base, assemble the necessary troops and aviation and attend to the training for the invasion.

I, of course, had no knowledge of the atom bomb or the plans of Russia to intervene. Nor did I know, during these ruminations about the seizure of a jumping-off base that our forces even then were consolidating Okinawa.

I finished these deliberations about Aug. 15, 1945, and while it was inspiring even to dream of such forces in the field, at sea and in the air, it was still depressing to think of the years of imprisonment which lay before me.

Told "War Is Over"

You can well imagine my incredulity, therefore when on the evening of Aug. 18 Cpl. Willard tapped on my door and stuck his head in.

"I congratulate you, General," he said.

"Really? Upon what?" I asked, wholly unarmed for what he was about to say.

"The war is over," he said. Just like that.

I could not get up from my chair, but I could talk.

"I don't believe it. I told him.

"It must be," he insisted. "The interpreter just told me. Russian troops have entered Manchuria. The interpreter says that that did it . . . it's over."

After a bit I got up and walked across the hall to Major Gen. George F. Moore's room and for a long time we talked about the fantastic report. But it had come too soon. It was something that was too incredibly wonderful to be true, we decided. Yet I did not sleep a wink that night.

The next morning at roll call Lieut. Marui assembled the officers, civilians and enlisted men in a large room in the barracks, formed us in line and read aloud for several minutes in Japanese from a prepared script.

Then he nodded to the interpreter.

Joy Uncontrollable

The interpreter cleared his throat, looked at us seriously and began:

"By order of the Emperor the war has now been amicably terminated . . ."

We roared suddenly with laughter . . . roared until the rest of his words were blotted out. There was no stopping the laughter. It came up in me and in the others with an irresistable force, something born of a combination of our relief, the look on the Jap's face, the blind preposterousness of his beginning, the release from years of tension, the utter utter joy over having survived to see this blessed day.

About the only intimate fact known of Fritz Sauckel is that he had the largest family of any Nazi leader—10 children. Former gauleiter of Thuringia and a party veteran, his appointment as high commissioner for the employment of all labor was announced in March, 1942. These are some of the cracks of his manpower whip . . . hospital and clinic doctors were deprived of the right to say whether a German was fit to work, such certification being done only by doctors associated with Sauckel's organization . . . German workers who lost time because of air raids or military service had to make it up in overtime on the job.

Truman Joins Press Club, Gets New Piano

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—President Truman found himself with a new piano today after a night out with the boys of the National Press club.

It was quite a show, the President agreed, and he even added a gag or two of his own. However, his remarks were off-the-record.

Comedian Eddie Cantor, commenting on the club's presentation of a Steinway piano to the Chief Executive, said:

"If anybody needs practice, it's the President. He played for Stalin at Potsdam. Immediately afterwards rumors started stirring that Stalin was a very sick man."

No matter what he plays, Cantor insisted, "it still sounds like the Missouri Waltz."

Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada and General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower seemed to get quite a kick out of Comedian Joe E. Lewis' description of a banker as "a man who will lend you money if you can prove you don't need it."

The President was formally inducted into the club as a dues-paying member.

SOIL PROGRAM ELECTION SET

County's New Conservation Supervisors To Be Chosen Nov. 20.

Election of district supervisors of the Marion county soil conservation program will take place Tuesday, Nov. 20, according to Arthur H. Smith, county extension agent, through whose office the action is being handled. All centralized schools in the county will be open Tuesday from 7:30 to 10 p. m. for voting.

Five local supervisors are to be chosen and will supervise the work of any service obtained through the board, conduct surveys, investigations and research related to the need for the conservation, soil building or necessary protective and control measures. The board will develop plans to conserve water and soil resources, the building of soil fertility and erosion prevention.

Anyone who wishes may file a petition, which must be signed by 25 land owners. Copies of the petitions are available at the extension office, Mr. Smith said.

Steps toward organization of the Marion county soil conservation district began in September when petitions were obtained and signed. This was followed by a public hearing and referendum.

2 Yanks Burned Alive, Yamashita Court Told

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Nov. 14—The story of the inhuman bayoneting and burning alive of two American airmen was added today to the long list of atrocities charged against Japanese soldiers in the Philippines.

Bodies of the fliers, gunners from a twin engined plane that crashed off Cebu, were found by an American officer in charge of graves registration who told the U. S. military commission trying Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita on war crimes charges of the atrocity.

The officer exhibited pictures of the charred bodies, their hands still tied behind their backs, and said he had found marks at the base of the men's necks where they had been struck by a heavy instrument. A Filipino told him the men had been bayoneted, their bodies covered with gasoline and ignited.

Yamashita's interpreter told the commission he saw Japanese military policemen behead 26 Filipino men and one woman in 40 minutes at a North Manila cemetery. The witnesses, who worked for the South Manila military police garrison, told of seeing an order signed by Yamashita commending the work and treatment of "guerrillas in and around Manila."

STRIKES

asserted wages "cannot continue to go up when prices must remain at their present level."

Elsewhere along the labor front, labor disputes kept idle about 270,000 workers.

"No progress" was reported in the meeting in Philadelphia between labor and management called in an effort to effect a settlement in the strike of some 4,003 AFL employes on six Greyhound bus lines in 19 states.

In San Francisco, negotiations in the strike of 12,000 CIO and AFL machinists over a wage dispute, appeared deadlocked, keeping an additional 55,000 workers away from their jobs.

A tieup of street car and bus transportation in Kansas City for "three or four hours" on Saturday was threatened by AFL members of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railways & Motor Coach Employes if the company fails to sign a union contract by than.

Bakery goods were scarcities in San Francisco today as 800 AFL bakers planned to strike, following a walkout of drivers.

In Detroit, the Chrysler Corp., preparing to resume wage negotiations tomorrow with the CIO United Automobile Workers, asked the union to permit it to discharge or discipline any employe "causing or taking part in an unauthorized strike." The corporation listed 487 work stoppages in its plants since September, 1943. Negotiations with General Motors Corp. on UAW's demands for a 30 per cent wage rate boost also are to be resumed tomorrow.

General Motors announced its approximately 70,000 salaried employes would be given a 10 per cent increase on the first $500 of monthly salary, retroactive to Nov. 1. The increase does not apply to senior officers and directors.

Striking CIO-UAW employes of the International Harvester plant in Fort Wayne, Ind., voted to return to work. Negotiations are to be continued after the strikers return.

Striking CIO-United Steelworkers voted last night for the second time to continue their 30-day stoppage at Timken Roller Bearing Co. plants, local union President Finas Reynolds reported at Canton.

"The members reaffirmed the action of Nov. 1 to stay out until the company either meets with the union committee or accepts our proposal," Reynolds announced.

The strike began Oct. 15 following the disciplinary suspension of a 10-inch mill crew and involved a dispute over week-end schedules for maintenance men.

The National Labor Relations board opened a hearing on unfair labor practices filed against Timken yesterday.

U. S. LANDS CHIANG'S TROOPS IN RED AREA

By The Associated Press

TSINGTAO, Nov. 14—Thousands of American-trained and equipped Chinese Nationalist troops are landing unopposed today from U. S. transports at this North China city, occupied Oct. 11 by American Marines who since have been cooped up by the presence of Chinese Communists nearby.

Whether the Marines will be pulled out of Shantung peninsula, reportedly dominated by the Reds, was not made known.

Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd Jr.'s Sixth division has been limited to garrison duty since accepting surrender of more than 10,000 Japanese.

Chinese Red troops ring the port by land. The strategic ports of Chefoo and Weihaiwei are in Communist hands. American warships were anchored off those two ports for several weeks but no Americans or Nationalists were landed.

A landing was considered last month at Chefoo but Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barney reported no Japanese were in the area and there was no reason for the landing.

(American officials in denying repeated Communist charges of American intervention in China's undeclared civil war have emphasized the primary mission was to repatriate the Japanese).

The Tsingtao landing is nearly 300 miles south of Chingwangtao where the Chinese 13th army was put ashore Oct. 30 by the same transports under command of Commodore T. B. Britain, of Ashland, Ky.

Marines also preceded Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's men in occupying Chinwangtao. Earlier in that vicinity Marines told of incidents in which they were fired upon and two enlisted men wounded while on guard duty. Marine officers said Chinese Communists did the firing and later apologized, explaining they had thought they were shooting at Japanese.

CAPITAL MAPS STAND ON LABOR PROBLEMS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 — Industry plans to lay on the line, today or tomorrow, its stand on every big issue before President Truman's management-labor conference.

As the industrial peace parley entered its tenth day, the management delegation decided, in the words of President Ira Mosher of the National Association of Manufacturers, the time had come to "shove things along a little."

Almost the entire 18-member industry delegation started work last night on a statement of business position on collective bargaining, observance of contracts, jurisdictional quarrels and other subjects on the conference agenda.

President Eric Johnston of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce said the proposed statement of industry delegates on approaches to labor peace might be described as the first coordinated declaration by a major portion of industry on employer-employe relations.

MacKenzie Likes Attlee's Address, Palestine Probe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Yesterday was a real Anglo-American day, what with Prime Minister Attlee's address to congress and the agreement between Washington and London to join hands in a committee of inquiry to deal with the problem of the Jewish national home in Palestine.

Of course this doesn't necessarily presage agreement either in the matter of Palestine, or concerning the affairs in which Mr. Attlee is mainly interested at the moment—the atomic bomb and that big loan to England. Still, it's a heartening exhibition of international amity and willingness to cooperate.

D. MacKenzie

Attlee's job, I take it, was largely one of salesmanship. He wanted to convince America that there's no threat to our interests in England's new Socialist government with its nationalization program, and that a loan is justifiable. As to the loan, he will find two schools of thought in this country, but probably most people will agree with one striking statement which is calculated to provide a basis for world cooperation. It is this:

"I look forward to an era of increasing cooperation and friendship between the U.S.A. and Great Britain—not as an exclusive friendship but as a contribution to the knitting together with all peoples through the United Nations organization in the bonds of peace.

Each In Own Way

"In our internal policies each will follow the course decided by the people's will. You will see us (Britain) embarking on projects of nationalization.. We shall be working out a planned economy. You, it may be, will continue in your more individualistic methods. It is more important that we should understand each other and other nations whose institutions differ from our own. It is essential if we are to build up a peaceful world that we should have the widest toleration, recognizing that our aim is not uniformity but unity in diversity. It would be a dull world if we were all alike."

That's a thesis which seekers after peace can support. It means that America and any other nations which wish to pursue a policy of individual enterprise can do so and still be able to cooperate with countries which prefer nationalization and perhaps regimentation of the individual. A nation doesn't have to accept or even endorse the political ism of another country in order to be friendly.

Cold Comfort

The decision to create a joint Anglo-American committee to study the Jewish question, both in Europe and in Palestine, will bring literally cold comfort to the host of homeless Jewish refugees who are facing the tragedies of winter on the continent. However, it's important that the wheels are turning towards a decision. British Foreign Minister Bevin said yesterday that both England and the United States favor an interim settlement of the question pending the submission of a proposed permanent solution to the United Nations organization. It is, of course, a matter which concerns the world as a whole. Mr. Bevin made one remark which may surprise some folk, and it was this:

"We (Britain) never undertook to establish a Jewish state. We did undertake to establish a Jewish home and that we must fulfill."

It is true that the Balfour declaration of 1917 promised a "national home" and specifically stated that it should be "clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine." But with passing time the idea has grown in many minds that a Jewish "state" was contemplated—a point which may have to be ironed out in due course.

WRONG MAN BURIED

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—The man who is buried in the grave of Ollie Edward, 41, of Hammond, Ind., became a live question for police today. Six weeks ago a man carrying Edwards' Army discharge papers was found dead on a west side street, identified as Ollie by his brother Edward Edwards and buried. Yesterday Police Lt. Joseph Starshak, who had checked the dead man's fingerprints in Washington, found Ollie, who telephoned his brother Edward and told him he was not dead.

MORE TROUBLE DUE, FARM BUREAU TOLD

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14 — Perry L. Green, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation warned today that "the revolution of the people" would continue until political and economic slavery had been ended, or until the people were destroyed by war.

In a speech prepared for the opening session of the 27th convention of the Farm Bureau, Green declared:

"Democracy and all it means to us has not been saved by the war itself. It has, however, given us another breathing spell of years duration—how many we can't say — to recreate in the hearts of men the ideals for which democracy stands.

"Let us not be deceived by thinking that this is the end of the revolution of the people. It will continue until its causes have been remedied or until the people are destroyed by the wars their government and economic leadership resort to in an effort to subdue the revolution."

Green urged coordination of governmental, economic, and political programs to satisfy "the reasonable demands of the great masses of the people."

JAPS BEG FOR FOOD; WOULD PAY IN GOODS

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Nov. 14—Hungry Japan appealed today for Allied food and fuel, promising to pay—in installments—by shipments of gold, diamonds, silk and other goods.

General MacArthur's headquarters reported it was not ready to indicate the Allied answer. Japanese Minister of Commerce Sankuro Ogasawara announced the formal application for the imports—mostly from America—to stave off threatening famine. He made it clear Japan's alternatives are simple: barter or die.

Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger reported occupation forces in Japan and Korea are near their peak and soon will decline from their present 460,000.

While American reparations representatives deliberated the price Japan must pay for her war of aggression, Japanese prepared to set up their own reparations commission to study the problem, Kyodo news agency said.

Why buy "War" Bonds ...when there isn't any war?

Wait a minute, mister!

Don't be too quick to call it finished!

Sure, the shooting has stopped. But our fighting men still face a long tough battle... the battle to switch from soldier to civilian, from Seaman 1st class to Citizen 1st class.

They're going to need your support in that struggle just as much or more than they did in the actual fighting.

That's why this Victory Drive is the most important of all!

Here's what your Bonds will do!

They'll bring our forces home. To return our Armed Forces will cost hundreds of millions of dollars. How many soldiers will the bonds you buy bring home?

They'll take care of the wounded. On the average it takes about $150. per month to give one wounded man the care and nursing that he needs. How long will the Bonds you buy take care of a casualty?

And Bonds will help them start their lives again. Congress has set up to $300 00 as the base mustering-out pay. The "G.I. Bill of Rights" provides for additional aid in rehabilitation. How many soldiers and sailors and marines will be helped by the Bonds you buy?

You help and you are helped!

When you figure it out you are helping yourself as much as anyone else. Each dollar you lend in a Victory Bond is building your future security. And you get well paid for lending your money...$75 put in E Bonds now, will come back in 10 years as $100.

Help the men who won our victory.. help your government... and help yourself! Buy more Bonds in the Victory Drive!

"Following the Victory Loan, the sale of E, F, and G U.S. Savings Bonds will continue through regular authorization agencies and through the Payroll Savings Plan.
